DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement filed 2 October 2007 fails to comply with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97, 1.98 and MPEP § 609 because the Japan Patent Office official action is not translated nor is a translation available. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to therein has not been considered as to the merits. Applicant is advised that the date of any re-submission of any item of information contained in this information disclosure statement or the submission of any missing element(s) will be the date of submission for purposes of determining compliance with the requirements based on the time of filing the statement, including all certification requirements for statements under 37 CFR 1.97(e). See MPEP § 609.05(a).

Drawings

2. The drawings were received on 21 November 2007. These drawings are acceptable.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by applicant's admitted prior art.

Art Unit: 3721

At pages 1 and 2 of the written description under the heading BACKGROUND ART and in figure 5 of the present application applicant admits that a driver structure is old and well known which has the same structural features as those set forth in claims 1 and 4. In particular, the admitted prior art discloses a driver structure comprising a blade edge (20) disposed to be in contact with a staple; a first pair of projections (21), each projection (21) of the first pair being provided at an opposite end portion of the blade edge (as seen in fig. 5); and a second pair of projections (25), each projection (25) of the second pair being provided on the blade edge (20) in vicinity of one the projections (21) of the first pair and each projection (25) of the second pair has a corner portion, and each projection (21) of the first pair has a guiding surface.

The structural limitations of the claim are met by the admitted prior art, and the recitations "and being disposed to be in contact with a corner formed between the crown and one of the leg portions for pressing the leg portion perpendicularly when the leg portion passes through the bundle of papers", "and being configured to be in contact with the crown in vicinity of one of the leg portions when the leg portion passes through the bundle of papers", "disposed adjacent to one of the corners of the staple, which engages with the crown and is configured to prevent the corner of the staple from slipping toward a central side of the crown", and "positioned at least partially outside of an outside edge of one of the leg portions, so as to guide said outside edge of the leg portion and restrict the broadening of a leading end of the leg portion when the leg portion of the staple through the bundle of papers" are functional and intended use statements which are fully capable of being performed by the admitted prior art structure shown in fig. 5 and described at pages 1 and 2 of the present application.

Furthermore, the admitted prior art discloses a middle projection (above 24 in fig. 5) provided on the blade edge between the projections (25) of the second pair, and which is fully capable of performing the function of "to hold the crown of the staple when the pair of leg portions pass through the bundle of papers".

Regarding claim 4, the admitted prior art discloses the middle projection (above 24 in fig. 5) comprises a crown pressing portion which is fully capable of performing the function of "to press the crown".

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 21 November 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant has amended the subject matter of claim 1 to include the subject matter of previous claim 3, and argued that the admitted prior art, as discussed above, does not disclose or teach a middle projection. This is not agree with by the examiner because a comparison of figure 3 showing an embodiment of applicant's claimed invention and figure 5 showing the prior art reveals that the two are virtually identical in structure, and most importantly both have identical middle projections. A review of applicant's arguments and written description describes the claimed middle projection as corresponding to crown pressing portion or third projecting part 9 in figure 1, and as crown pressing portion or third projecting part 10 in figure 2. This is what applicant has argued, but it is also noted that the claimed middle projection also corresponds to crown pressing portion or third projecting part 10 in figure 3. The subject matter of claim 1 and claim 4 is anticipated as the identical structure is disclosed by that which is described in the specification at pages 1 and 2 and shown in figure 5..

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The Hurkmans et al. reference shows a staple driver in figure 10 of interest to applicant's disclosure.

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
